

Council Makes Election Changes, Reacts to Sewer Back-up Problem

by Thomas X. White

With all members present at the June 22 meeting, the Greenbelt City Council had a full agenda. Among the items on their list were completing action on the package of Charter amendments relating to changes in the Greenbelt electoral process and several follow-on resolutions pertaining to actions taken by council in adoption of the city’s Fiscal Year 2010 budget.

In addition, council dealt with a resolution concerning adjustments to the schedule of fees for city staff administration of the zoning powers council exercises and other items of business for which the city manager requested council direction. In effect, this meeting’s agenda cleared the decks for a majority of councilmembers to head out of town for the annual Maryland Municipal League convention in Ocean City June 28 to July 1.

Added to the agenda was an issue raised by a group of homeowners from the Greenbrook Estates neighborhood who experienced simultaneous sewer backups in the basements of their homes. They sought council’s assistance in their frustrations with the poor follow-up response from the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission (WSSC).

Sewer Backups

During the Petitions and Requests portion of the agenda, Janice Chiddo, a resident of Mathew Street in the Greenbrook Estates subdivision, and several of her neighbors requested council assistance in dealing with the WSSC following sewer backups last month in four homes. Chiddo related how sewage came up through the drains in basements with damage ranging from minor to severe.

According to the residents, the response to this incident by WSSC was very poor and that in follow-ups, WSSC has been giving the residents conflicting information on whether or not the homeowners will be compensated for the damages. Apparently WSSC informed one owner who suffered minimal damage that the agency will cover damages but has told owners of other homes whose damages were more extreme that repairs will be the homeowner’s responsibility.

When WSSC made on-site inspections, their staff indicated their belief that the backups were caused by the storm drainage system rather than within their sewer system. WSSC staff refused to enter the affected homes to view the damage. City Manager Michael McLaughlin wondered how such an event could affect four homes in the subdivision and still be considered the homeowner’s responsibility.

Council placed the item on the agenda and, when it was taken up later that evening, they agreed to have the city staff look further into the incident and communicate concerns to WSSC regarding the plight of the homeowners and request a response.

Election Procedures

On the agenda for second reading and adoption were two proposed charter amendments and one proposed ordinance relating to changes council has decided should be made to increase voter

New Deal Café Members Elect Audit Committee

by Karl B. Hille

The new incarnation of the New Deal Café, which reopened on June 26, serving beer, wine, fine desserts and its signature Middle Eastern fare, now has a three-member audit committee to help prevent any future surprise lockouts.

The audit committee – Ed James, Dorian Winterfeld and Michael Hartman – was elected Monday night, June 29 after just over an hour of debate on the committee’s purpose.

“We used to have an audit committee,” co-op board member Bill Wilkerson said, as the ad hoc elections committee were counting paper ballots. “After a while they sort of voted themselves out of existence as I understand it.”

Calls for an audit committee, accountable to the membership as well as to the co-op board, were raised last month after the New Deal board closed its doors without explanation on May 13.

A motion that would have established an audit committee was scrapped at the June 7 emergency membership meeting after members learned the board and management were close to reaching a new contract agreement.

New Committee

Members at the June 29 meeting decided on a three-member committee. Members will serve one year each and cannot serve on the co-op board or be an employee of the Café. They can request information of the board or management so long as a majority of the audit committee votes to begin an investigation and can publish their findings to the membership as well as to the board.

Improving communications between members and the board was mentioned several times during the meeting as a key function of the committee.

The committee can also look into the financial statements and audit reports of the co-op and its manager, adherence to all contracts and bylaws and accounting and budget issues.

GHI Board and Council Meet, Hold Stakeholders Discussion

by Mary Moien

The Greenbelt City Council met with the board and management of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI), on June 17 in a stakeholders meeting. GHI and the city have many overlapping interests as the housing cooperative formed the major core of the original city. Topics covered included utility issues, bus service to GHI areas, street right of way issues and home inspections for code violations.

Right of Way

There are a few homes and a number of yards in GHI that lie within the right of way of various streets in Greenbelt. The most serious problems are homes on Crescent Road and several residents attended the meeting. One older woman expressed concern about the fact that the right of way actually ran through her living room. The streets around GHI have a right of way that runs from 60 to 100 feet from the center of the street. In a few cases, those footages cut into homes. Celia Craze spoke for the city, describing the process that is underway to resolve these problems.

It appears that GHI and the city are in agreement that the rights of way will be redrawn where needed, starting on Crescent Road. However, how much it will cost and how long it will take for property lines to be redrawn are complicated by the fact the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission (M-NCPPC) has to review and approve the changes. The city must petition the M-NCPPC to vacate the current property lines and then approve the redrawn ones. It is not certain what the cost will be and how the costs will be shared by GHI and the city.

Of additional practical concern to GHI members is any potential problem selling homes or building additions. GHI General Manager Gretchen Overdurff addressed that issue. She stated that in addition to the serious problems on Crescent Road there are about 130 yard incursion problems also on Ridge and Hillside. These involve yards only. Currently residents who have yards in the right of way can install fences, sheds or other non-permanent structures in the right of way space. No home additions can be built. Most GHI members who have a right of way problem are aware of the issue. It is hoped that the first petition, for Crescent Road, can be submitted to M-NCPPC in early fall. Although all homes will be spared, it appears that it is possible that affected yard lines might need to be redrawn with yard size reduced.

WSSC Work

Significant replacement of underground pipes is going on throughout Greenbelt. WSSC is currently working in the Boxwood and Lakewood areas. They have not gotten to GHI yet but GHI board member Sylvia Lewis stated that she wanted to be sure that GHI and the city are working together on this project. Eldon Ralph, GHI’s assistant general manager, commented that there have already been several meetings with the city and WSSC. He wants to be sure that yards are restored after pipes are replaced. It appears that WSSC didn’t realize how much GHI property was going to be affected. The pipe replacement will cover all of the original masonry homes. City Councilmember Ed Putens cautioned staff and members to get all discussions and promises with WSSC in writing. The project has been pushed back and it currently appears that WSSC won’t begin to work on GHI property for a year or more.

City Police Issue Rules For July Fourth at Lake

The Greenbelt Police Department wishes everyone a happy and safe Fourth of July. To enhance holiday safety, the following guidelines are for the celebration at Buddy Attick Park (Greenbelt Lake). A tent with Police Department employees will be in the grassy area by the main parking lot to provide first aid and to help with lost and missing children.

No Alcohol/Fireworks

Do not bring alcoholic beverages to the park. Alcohol is strictly prohibited in this and all city-owned parks. Violators will be subject to arrest. Remember that all pets must be on a leash.

Fireworks are deadly, dangerous and illegal. All forms, including firecrackers, snakes, sparklers and bottle rockets are prohibited by law in Greenbelt and in all of Prince George’s County. Those found to be in possession of fireworks will be subject to arrest. Penalties include a fine up to $1,000 and/or six months in jail.

For safety and security reasons, people carrying coolers and packages into the park may be asked to have the contents of those packages inspected.

Parking Lot

The parking lot is reserved primarily for handicapped and elderly individuals. Vehicles must have handicapped or elderly individuals onboard in order to use this lot. Handicapped tags and/or placards will not necessarily be required nor will they guarantee a parking space.

Temporary “No Parking” signs will be posted on the streets surrounding the park. Vehicles

Editorial

An Improper Meeting

Greenbelt City Councilmember Rodney Roberts is right to make an issue of a decision made by three councilmembers outside of council chambers and the statement they prepared with legal assistance for the June 8 council meeting. The failure to include all members in open meeting violated the underlying precepts of the council-manager form of government which call for open government.

On May 26, council had decided by a three-to-two vote to have staff prepare a charter amendment to provide for changing city elections to even-numbered years. Subsequently the three councilmembers supporting this decision, Mayor Judith Davis, Leta Mach and Konrad Herling, apparently had second thoughts. They discussed the matter by telephone and email, consulted with city legal counsel, agreed to withdraw support and then prepared a statement, made June 8, explaining their decision according to statements made by the three at the June 22 meeting after Roberts questioned them. All this was done apparently without the knowledge of the remaining two councilmembers. The statement read June 8 by Mayor Davis used the pronoun “we” throughout without defining who was meant, leaving the impression that it referred to the full council.

We do not fault individual councilmembers in exchanging points of view. However, when a majority of members reach an agreement and jointly issue a statement concerning the decision, a meeting has taken place whether the group was in the same room or not. Such a meeting should have been publicly called and all councilmembers notified.

We are equally concerned that legal assistance was sought in the preparation of a statement without the knowledge or involvement of all councilmembers. It is a dictum of council-manager government that if staff provides information to one member, it is provided to all other members as well.

If the information brought out at the June 22 council meeting is correct, we believe the three councilmembers erred in this matter.

THANKS!

Thanks to all who donated blood on June 30 at the Greenbelt Municipal Building. The drive didn’t start at the scheduled time, 2 p.m., because the Red Cross was missing equipment needed for the drive. The equipment arrived at 4:30 p.m. and that is the time the drive started. There were several donors who left because they could not wait.

The Greenbelt Recreation Department and the American Red Cross are trying to schedule an emergency blood drive.

Please look for the emergency blood drive date in the News Review and call Janet Goldberg at 301-397-2212.

Savings and Safety At Beltway Plaza

Long-time residents of Greenbelt know that Beltway Plaza has been the shopping center to shop for bargains for more than 40 years. Lifers will remember when the first discount department store, S. Klein On The Square, opened at Beltway Plaza and offered discounts never previously available anywhere. Even newcomers know that Target, the foremost discount department store in America, is conveniently located at Beltway lots on foot, by bicycle and automobile. Auto thefts, a problem at many installations in the county, are few and far between, due to a professional zone approach to the patrol function. Greenbelt Police statistics demonstrate that year over year, for the 12 month period of 2008 compared to 2007, calls for service decreased in the Beltway Plaza Sector by 28 percent. And, for the first four months of 2009, 93 percent of all reported incidents consisted of shoplifting and petty larceny. Most public safety attention at Beltway Plaza consists of reuniting lost children with their parents and finding patrons’ cars for them in the parking lot. Even incidents of shoplifting have been much-reduced by diligent merchant loss prevention personnel.

As you old-timers know, I have been working for Beltway Plaza for 20 years; and, if I do say so myself, despite the current economic conditions, the customers, the merchants and their employees seem to be the happiest, the most-enthusiastic and the most service-dedicated I have seen in years. Target, Marshall’s and Burlington continue to offer quality goods at affordable prices. Positive changes are on the near horizon, too, for Beltway Plaza. Pretty soon, new stores and restaurants, like William’s American Bistro (opened this week), will open, replacing those that have departed. Physical renovation is in the planning stage and public notice of these improvements will be forthcoming shortly.

For your own benefit, for the good of the community and to show your support for Beltway Plaza, the local merchants there and the Mall and store employees, take advantage of the convenience and bargains and shop Beltway Plaza. I pledge to you and to the community to do all that I can to make your shopping experience an enjoyable and safe one. Your comments, your suggestions, and yes, even your complaints are welcome.

Correction

Last week’s front page article on the challenge to the mayor’s statement incorrectly stated that Councilmember Rodney Roberts objected to council referring the issues he had raised at that meeting to the city solicitor. That motion to refer passed unanimously.

Greenbelters Take Six Games in a Row

The Greenbelters of the Baltimore Beltway Senior Softball League closed out June with six straight wins. First they took a doubleheader from Bowie Gold by 10-7 and 13-6, led by the hitting of Phil Olsen, John Benish, Dave Kerr, Harlan Park and Jasper Pendergrass. Next Greenbelt beat Bowie Bronze, 14-11, as clean-up hitter Pendergrass drove in six runs with two home runs and a single while Benish garnered four hits and George Harrison and Joe Battle had three each.

Then, behind manager-pitcher Ray Reed, they beat Carroll County Grey by 2-1 as Olsen singled in the winning run in the ninth inning. In a 13-12 slug fest the next day, with Paul Williams and Bob Smith splitting the pitching, Harrison homered with two men on base and Benish had three hits.

Finally, with Reed back on the mound against the Howard County Hitters, Kerr doubled in the winning run in the ninth for a 9-8 victory. Also weighing in during the win streak were Fred Bohle, Larry Dandridge, Jim Dugan, Jim Harbaugh, Burt Kerr, Luis Rivera, Irv Salzberg, Michael Schultz, John Strekel and Willie White.

Metro Launches NextBus Program, Includes Greenbelt

by Joel Mason-Gaines

As of July 1 more than 12,008 Metrobus stops, including ones located in Greenbelt, will feature NextBus technology. The new NextBus structure uses a global positioning system and computer modeling to track buses as they make stops on their routes. The computer modeling takes into account many factors, such as the time of day and whether or not schools are in session, to predict when buses will arrive at each designated stop.

Commuters will be able to check the status of their bus through internet updates every two minutes at wmata.com. There is also the option of calling the number posted on the new, round, red, white and blue NextBus signs which have been placed at all bus stops.

Many people have been deterred from riding Metrobuses in the past because of their unpredictability and reliance on a paper schedule. Metro hopes the new system will encourage more ridership since less time will be wasted waiting for bus arrivals.

If more people rode the bus it would reduce street congestion as well as CO₂ emissions from cars, which contribute to global climate change. The many electric-hybrid and natural gas-powered buses in Metro’s fleet also limit pollution.

A pilot NextBus program by Metro operated at 80 percent efficiency. Metro hopes the new full-fledged system will operate at 90 percent efficiency.

Know thou assuredly that the essence of all the Prophets of God is one and the same. Their unity is absolute. God, the Creator, saith: There is no distinction whatsoever among the Bearers of My Message. They all have but one purpose; their secret is the same secret. She is among 50 of the most promising young women alumni from the U.S. and Middle Eastern world age 15 to 22 taking part in the “Leadership in Action” program that includes leadership, women’s rights, government and politics, business and media. The group will also participate in a series of cultural and community service events throughout Jordan.

Notice of Charter Amendment Resolutions

At its regular meeting of June 22, 2009, the City Council adopted two resolutions to amend the City Charter. As required by state law, these resolutions will be posted in their entirety for 40 days, until August 1, 2009, at the Municipal Building, as well as on the City’s Web site at www.greenbeltmd.gov. Copies may also be requested of the City Clerk. The charter amendment resolutions will become effective on August 11, 2009, unless a proper petition to submit the amendment(s) to the voters on a referendum is filed by August 1, 2009, as permitted by law. As also required by state law, this notice is given to provide a fair summary of both resolutions.

participation, make it easier for citizens to vote and help in some way to increase diversity on the city council. These pieces of legislation represent a culmination of over a year’s activity by council to address concerns raised in a February 2008 letter from the American Civil Liberties Union of Maryland (ACLU) and the Prince George’s County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

The first item was an ordinance adding the newly created Precinct 18 to the city code. This new polling place would be the city’s fifth, with one in Greenbelt West (precinct 8), two in central Greenbelt (precincts 3 and 6) and now two in Greenbelt East (precincts 13 and 18).

It was noted at the meeting that the Greenbelt Board of Elections is looking at several possible locations for voting within the new precinct. Among these are the Turning Point Academy on Good Luck Road just outside the city limits, the Hunting Ridge Community Center and the community building at Schrom Hills Park. The ordinance passed unanimously.

Early Voting

The second election reform measure was a resolution to amend the city charter for a more liberal use of early voting by citizens registered to vote. Davis noted that if this resolution is adopted, the next step would require work with the city’s Board of Elections to determine the particular features of early voting appropriate for Greenbelt elections and to spell out details in a subsequent ordinance before the upcoming election.

This resolution was adopted by a four-to-one vote with Roberts continuing his objection that this and the next proposed charter amendment represent significant changes for Greenbelt voters and that he believes they should have been proposed as questions for the voters in non-binding ballots at the time of the upcoming election. Roberts feels that early voting may have a harmful effect on nonincumbents in future elections. Other members of council discounted that possibility.

The last election measure up for adoption in the form of a Resolution for a Charter Amendment dealt with increasing the size of the Greenbelt City Council from the current five to seven members, all elected at-large. This change was also approved by a four-to-one vote with Roberts repeating his objections. He argued that the changes should not be made by council without greater participation in the discussion by Greenbelt voters.

As reported in the June 25 News Review, the proposal to move the date for Greenbelt City Council elections from the current odd-numbered to even years to coincide with county, state and federal elections was subsequently removed from the agenda of the June 8 meeting as no longer being considered by the current council.

However, at the June 22 meeting, Roberts strongly challenged the statement made by Davis accompanying her request for removal of that item from the June 8 agenda. Council then voted to have the timeline and the appropriateness of the mayor’s statement reviewed by the city solicitor and to have a report provided to council on his findings.

Other Resolutions

In action on other resolutions, council gave unanimous final approval of a new name for the former Recycling and Environmental Committee (REAC). REAC had been established by council in 1999 with a general charge that covered the city’s recycling program and other environmental issues. This year the committee expressed a desire to include sustainability within their scope and requested a name change. The adopted resolution changes the committee’s name to the Greenbelt Advisory Committee on Environmental Sustainability (GreenACES).

Also approved unanimously were two resolutions stemming from the city’s adopted FY10 budget. One resolution establishes new service charges for garbage, trash and recycling collections – $60 per quarter for refuse and recycling and $30 per year for recycling only.

Another resolution given final approval involves the transfer of appropriations between departments in the General Fund. This action is in effect a balancing act as the city code requires that actual expenditures should not exceed the appropriation for each functional area in the General Fund (i.e., Public Safety, Public Works, etc.).

The resolution effects transfers from functional areas in which savings have occurred to other functional areas that will probably exceed their adopted budget. Such a transfer must occur before the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 2009).

A resolution to establish new admission fees and pass rates for the Greenbelt Aquatic and Fitness Center, effective September 8, 2009, following the seasonal close of the outdoor pool was introduced for first reading. The new rate schedule reflects increases of 5 percent for pass rates and a daily admission increase of 25 cents.

Also introduced for first reading was another perennial resolution authorizing the negotiated purchase of certain goods and services from selected vendors when expected total fiscal year purchases from each vendor exceeds $10,000. Such a resolution is necessary to allow city staff to avoid obtaining bid proposals in cases where individual purchases exceed the $10,000 threshold for seeking bids if the vendors are sole source or the best source of purchase or where the city’s purchases are based upon bids taken by other agencies.

A third resolution introduced for first reading would update the fees the city applies to its exercise of limited zoning authorities granted by the Prince George’s County District Council, such as for design standards, landscaping, parking and loading standards, signs and variances. The changes will keep the city’s fee schedule in line with what the county charges for the same services.

McLaughlin indicated that the increases will have little effect on the FY10 budget.

Other Actions

McLaughlin also advised council of a recent award in the amount of $26,499 in a U.S. Department of Justice Assistance Grant (JAG). He noted that the Police Department recommends using the JAG award to purchase interoperable portable, mobile or fixed radio equipment.

It would be used for such purchases in conjunction with other federal grant programs. McLaughlin noted that any such purchase would have to await county development of an overall multi-jurisdiction communications system, which he estimates is about two years away.

Regarding another grant opportunity, the city’s Planning and Community Development Department recommends that the city submit an Expression of Interest form to the Maryland Highway Safety Office for a Safe Routes to School program grant for the Springhill Lake Elementary School area. This request, approved by council, was covered in a separate article in the June 25 News Review.

Council ratified its June 15 worksession consensus decision relating to the location and design features for a Doctors Hospital “Gateway” sign at the intersection of Good Luck Road and Hanover Parkway for their new Health Campus. Council agreed to express support for the sign with four conditions: 1. The city will be provided a copy of the landscape plan for the sign to review and comment on; 2. No trees will be taken down for installation of the sign; 3. Trees will be planted behind the wall. 4. Solar-powered lighting will be considered for the sign.

Council reacted favorably to a staff recommendation on a proposed city submission to the Maryland Municipal League’s (MML) legislative program for 2010. Staff suggested that a legislative action request be submitted to MML regarding Funding/Incentives for Alternative Fuel Vehicles and Stations.

Finally, council agreed with a staff recommendation to support a proposed county bill requiring a special exception for new check cashing establishments in the county. Most councilmembers agreed with the intent of the bill and expressed concern about a proliferation of such establishments and how they are perceived in area neighborhoods.

Roberts took a different view. He said he utilizes such establishments because of their more convenient hours than those of most banks. He seemed relieved when staff noted that the proposed bill would apply only to new establishments.

on all day and night. City Manager Mike McLaughlin indicated that an employee drives city streets each month to note lights that are out. In addition, residents call the city. The city then notifies Pepco. In his opinion, the situation is improving but not all residents were in agreement. There was discussion about which lights belong to the city and which belong to GHI. City lights are maintained by Pepco, GHI lights are not. It also appears that there is no centralized list of lights, where they are located or who is responsible for them. The city and GHI may work together more on the lighting issues.

A specific lighting problem was discussed regarding a path near the 11 and 13 courts of Ridge Road. A new bench was installed and it is in an under-lighted area and has become a magnet for “negative activity.” It could be considered a public safety issue. Was it a GHI light area or a city light area? Although the area is in GHI, it is considered a major walkway and Ralph indicated that the lighting belonged to the city. The city agreed. Although McLaughlin indicated that the bench is “in a nice spot coming up the hill” from Crescent, it could be moved to a more open area. It was proposed to move the bench closer to Ridge Road; a survey of affected residents will be undertaken first. The family who dedicated the bench will also be contacted.

Bus Service

The next discussion was on the city and transportation issues. Bus routes in the city and other areas are being reviewed to reduce redundancy. Mayor Judith Davis asked how many of those present belonged to TRU – Transit Riders United. Almost half of the GHI board raised their hands. TRU has met with County Councilmember Ingrid Turner to discuss Greenbelt concerns. One issue is “stacking.” It often appears that all buses come at one time and then there are none. Buses could be scheduled better.

Davis indicated that College Park has a contract with the University of Maryland (UM) buses to pick up other residents. The city is looking into that possibility as much of the city has a UM bus route. It is possible that College Park is paying UM about $10,000 per year. It was mentioned that the UM bus no longer serves Empirian Village (formerly Springhill Lake Apartments) as the new owners did not pay a required fee.

A question about purchasing a small city bus was raised by a GHI board member. Davis said that a small bus has been discussed as long as she’s been on the council. The city will soon increase the Greenbelt Connection availability to seven days a week. This is an “on demand” vehicle that will pick up individuals but they have to call in and make a reservation a day ahead. During discussion of options, it was stated that University Park runs buses to the Metro just during the morning and evening rush hours. The city relatively recently estimated costs for an intracity route of two vans and two drivers at a cost of $186,000 per year. Councilmember Konrad Herling mentioned that TRU was talking about how increased transportation could help to unify the city.

Home Inspections

GHI management conducts an exterior home and yard inspection each year. But some residents have also been cited by the city for code violations. Overdurff indicated that some people have received several city notices but the language was not consistent, leaving the resident confused. Craze described the city process. She indicated that the city has employees who drive through all neighborhoods looking for code violations. Most often, however, a neighbor will call with a complaint. She indicated that the letters use very specific language but that the “hang tag” notices often have hand written comments which are less standard. Currently GHI does not inform the city if it is working on a serious housing problem. However, the city should contact GHI (as well as the home occupant) if it discovers a code violation as GHI is the ultimate owner of the units. In serious cases, GHI and the city work together to try to get the members or the cooperative to bring the home up to required standards.

Disagreement broke out over a proposal by member Bill Duncan clarifying that the audit committee served a purely advisory function.

“I want to make sure that it is not a management function. It’s not a policy and decision-making body,” Duncan said. “The bylaws say the board is responsible for management and policy. There was a groundswell recently that we were going to somehow tell the board how to operate and how to run things.”

Counter-proposal

A counter-proposal offered by Joan Whelan clarifying that the reports of the committee not be ignored, failed to pass before Duncan’s proposal was approved unanimously.

In electing the committee, co-op members steered away from some of the most vocal critics of the board, especially those who led online and physical protests against the May 13 closure and petition drives.

Wilkerson said he hoped audit committee members would consider moving up to the co-op board after their year on the committee. “I’m getting tired and I’m not sure I can do another term,” he said.

Board member Terri Rutledge said she was partially energized by the newfound interest in the Café’s business. “I’m just sorry it took all this controversy to bring us together. Everybody made mistakes on both sides. We hope that we can have a profitable and productive relationship from now on,” she said.

St. Hugh's Fun Fair Plans All Day Fun for July 4

by Mary Moien

St. Hugh's Church and School are teaming up to sponsor a family fun fair on Saturday, July 4. Starting at 10 a.m., the fair is an all-day event held on the church and school grounds. "Fair goers can spend the day with us and then walk to the City of Greenbelt's fireworks display at Buddy Attick Park. We've got something for the whole family to do and enjoy," said fair organizer Cindy Perry. Reverend Walter Tappe, pastor of the parish, said, "Tell your neighbors and friends that this is a community event and all are welcome." (See ad on page 3.)

One of the planned events is a bicycle-decorating contest at the Greenbelt Youth Center behind the Public Library. Decorate bikes at home; judging will be at 9:45 a.m. Participants will then parade across the Braden Field bike path at 10 a.m. to St. Hugh's in a show of patriotic proportions. Another event that pet owners will enjoy is the Patriotic Pet Contest at 10:30 a.m. at the main fair area. Shoppers will delight in the book sale and rummage sale. Vendors will display and sell their wares, including jewelry, beauty products, quilts, fashion accessories and designer handbags.

Hot dogs, hamburgers, home-baked treats and other food and beverages will be available. John Winfrey's famous Texas barbeque, grilled to perfection by Winfrey and his crew of helpers, is also on the menu.

"We have carnival games, races, tennis and volleyball tournaments, science demonstrations, a silent auction and entertainment," said Perry. "Since we are right next to the lake, we hope to attract some of the people who go there early. We want them to stop by our fair to enjoy lots of good, old-fashioned fun. Rather than competing with the fireworks sponsored by the city, we've planned our events to complement the city's events. Our location makes this an ideal spot for a pre-fireworks celebration."

The church and school are located at 135 Crescent Road. Fair hours are from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Additional fair information and the schedule of events can be found online at www.sthughs.com.

Brian Booher Serves City As MML Summer Intern

by Joel Mason-Gaines and Barbara Hopkins

This year the Maryland Municipal League (MML), a non-profit organization that supports municipal governments, selected Greenbelt as one of two municipalities to participate in the league's summer internship program. The goal of the program is to foster career interest in or related to Maryland municipal governments.

Brian Booher

track its environmental record and has created a CO2 emissions calculator. The calculator takes into account the electricity used by all of the city buildings as well as the gasoline and diesel fuel consumed by city vehicles. Booher hopes the calculator's results will help the city develop a good idea of its carbon footprint.

Brian Booher, who works in the office of the city manager, is a graduate student in the University of Maryland's School of Public Policy. The 22-year-old from Washington Grove is specializing in environmental policy with interests in energy efficiency and conservation. City Manager Michael McLaughlin said he plans to use Booher's interests to move forward on energy sustainability matters. Booher is currently writing a draft on energy efficiency for city employees, encouraging them to recycle, turn off lights and correctly manage thermostats. He is also helping the city

He is also working with Beverly Palau in helping to educate the public about city elections and the coming changes. He enjoys the community outreach aspect of her work.

Introduced at the council meeting on June 8, Booher told council he is "looking forward to this opportunity and ... be[ing] a part of this wonderful community."

Booher says he would one day like to work for the City of Greenbelt and enjoys local government because he likes to see policies make a difference.

parked in these areas will be towed.

Traffic Regulations

The fireworks will begin at dusk (approximately 9 p.m.) and last 20 to 30 minutes. At the end traffic will be redirected outbound on Crescent Road toward Kenilworth Avenue. Inbound traffic entering Old Greenbelt from Kenilworth Avenue will not be allowed onto Crescent Road until most of the cars have left the area.

Motorists exiting the Beltway will not be allowed to proceed north on Kenilworth Avenue. I-95 traffic will be directed onto southbound Kenilworth Avenue. Motorists who need to go to the Old Greenbelt area can then turn left onto Greenbelt Road and make another left onto either Lakecrest Drive or Southway.

If the fireworks begin on time and no problems develop, these temporary changes in traffic patterns should not last any longer than 20 to 30 minutes from about 9:45 p.m.

Calls for Information

The most commonly asked question by those who call the police dispatcher on the Fourth of July is "What time are the fireworks?" Everyone is asked to remember that police telephone lines must be kept open for those with emergencies or other police-related concerns. Those needing additional information for any recreational event should call the Greenbelt Recreation Department at 301-474-0646.

MVA Is Closed Friday, Saturday

The Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration (MVA) will close its full-service and express offices on Friday, July 3 and Saturday, July 4 in observance of the Independence Day holiday. Vehicle emissions stations will also be closed. Online registration renewals and other time-saving eMVA options remain available at www.marylandmva.com. For more information visit the website or call the MVA Customer Service Center at 1-800-950-1MVA (1682).

NAMI Consumer Recovery Group

NAMI (National Association for the Mentally Ill) will hold its next meeting of a consumer recovery group on Wednesday, July 8 from 7 to 9 p.m. at St. Christopher's Church, 8001 Annapolis Road in New Carrollton.

Call JoAnn Anderson at 301-306-1635 or Regina Prophet at 240-353-4966 for more information.

Epic Story of First Men on the Moon

On Friday, July 10 at 6 p.m., the College Park Aviation Museum will host an evening lecture about the Apollo moon landing program by Craig Nelson, author of "Rocket Men." A regular museum fee applies.

Sixty years after Wilbur Wright taught the first military aviators how to fly in College Park, their successors landed on the moon. In 1969 the Apollo 11 mission put man on the moon and this July marks the 40th anniversary. Nelson will discuss the epic story of the first men on the moon. Limited copies of the book will be available for purchase. After the program Nelson will be available to answer questions and sign copies of his book.

“The Devil’s Carol” Homegrown Musical

by Penny Eileen Martin

“The Devil’s Christmas Carol” is an original musical with book, music and lyrics by me, Penny Martin. The world premiere performance will be at the Capital Fringe Festival in July but it was born, nurtured and raised in Greenbelt.

The adventure was born with a poem called “Chains” that I wrote and brought to my voice teacher, Greenbelter Izolda Trakhtenberg. “Chains” was inspired by the chains weighted with money bags and cashboxes that Jacob Marley wears in Dicken’s “A Christmas Carol.” I was struck by the idea that people are weighed down by their inability to let go of their past actions and mistakes more than by money or possessions. Trakhtenberg encouraged me to set the poem to music.

I will never know whether it was the effect of having seen way too many performances of “A Christmas Carol” or too many theatrical “Hell Weeks” (the week before opening night when there can be rehearsals every night of the week, actors grow tired and tempers short) that inspired me most. Possibly, it was simply too much caffeine at four in the morning. In any case, the idea of a theatre company of lost souls performing “A Christmas Carol” endlessly in Hell seemed to grow naturally out of “Chains.”

When I realized that Tiny Tim could be someone who wasn’t a child and didn’t have a limp and that Scrooge could be a shy young woman rather than a cantankerous old man, I was off and running with what I hoped would be a new and exciting twist on an old story.

SPOILER ALERT: Although the play is about “A Christmas Carol” it isn’t a performance of “A Christmas Carol.”

As I continued to write the script, the Christmas Carol characters grew to become people I knew and I was eager to find out what they would do and say next.

“The Devil’s Christmas Carol” started with a song and as I continued to write the story of Tim and Scrooge, Bob Cratchit and the rest of the “Christmas Carol” gang, I found that there were places where the actors could explain or express themselves more clearly through song, so I wrote lyrics to go with the developing script.

Eventually I had a script and some lyrics but I was more than a few musical numbers shy of a show. After approaching a number of people about putting my lyrics to music, I realized that it was time to put my musical background to work. With the aid of professional music writing software I had a digital orchestra at my fingertips. This turned out to be really useful when, due to working a fulltime job, I found myself composing music at two in the morning.

Armed with a script, a CD with some musical numbers, enthusiasm and a certain amount of straight up pigheaded stubbornness, I approached Betsy Marks Delaney, Artistic Director of OutOftheBlackBox Theatre Company (O2B2) and newly arrived Greenbelt citizen, with a proposal for performing the work at the 2009 Capital Fringe Festival.

Fortunately for me O2B2was willing to sponsor the production and Betsy Delaney agreed to direct the show.

It’s been an amazing opportunity with a talented cast of actors, including local actors and Greenbelt residents Phil Brandis as Bob Cratchit, Candy Madigan as The Charitable Woman and Kindra Gresham as Belle.

We’ll be performing at The Mountain at Mount Vernon Place United Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington DC, 20001, on Saturday, July 11 at 5 p.m.; Sunday, July 12 at 8 p.m.; Sunday, July 19 at 3:45 p.m.; and Saturday, July 25 at 10 p.m. Tickets go on sale June 22 at www.capitalfringe.org and will also be available by phone at 866-811-4111 and from the Fringe Festival Box Office on July 7 at Fort Fringe, 607 New York Ave NW, WDC. For more information visit O2B2’s website at www.O2B2.org.

Come and see us at the Fringe Fest. You’ll have a hell of a good time.

The Charitable Woman (Candy Madigan) and Mr. Fezziwig (BJ Mitchell) scold two urchins (Katie and Erin Delaney) in The Devil’s Christmas Carol.

Brian O’Neill’s “Mayor” Essay Is a GES Winner

The following essay from fourth-grade student Brian O’Neill was the winner of the “If I Were Mayor” contest at Greenbelt Elementary School.

Brian is interested in history and politics. He researched his entry by using the city’s website and articles in the News Review as sources. The Maryland Municipal League (MML) sponsors the annual contest for all fourth-graders in the state. Amarachi Ibe of St. Hugh’s School and Bella Juwita of Springhill Lake Elementary School were featured in last week’s issue. Their essays are among the finalists for Prince George’s County. The contest is geared to educate students about municipal government and the role of a mayor. There were 2,895 students statewide who submitted an essay.

Brian originally wrote a 475-word essay, which he gave to his teacher. Then he learned from the MML website that the contest limited the word count to 275. He revised his essay and found a way to convey his ideas within the shorter essay form. Here is Brian’s winning essay for his school:

“If I Were Mayor” by Brian O’Neill

If I were mayor, I would make Greenbelt a greener city. I would support The Greenhouse Gas Emission Reduction Act of 2009, which lowers Maryland’s greenhouse gas emissions by 25% between the years 2006-2020. As mayor of Greenbelt, I would ensure our city does its part to reduce greenhouse gases.

I would decrease auto emissions by encouraging walking, bicycling and the use of mass transit. A Greenbelt Circulator bus would connect all residential, recreational, shopping centers and the Metro. I would consider constructing additional bicycle lanes and safe pedestrian walkways. Any city vehicles purchased would be hybrid.

I would study the feasibility of using alternative power sources for city buildings. Perhaps grants from the federal government or ecological groups could be obtained for the installation of solar panels. City buildings would have energy efficient windows and lighting.

I would increase recycling by accepting a wider variety of materials and offering a city pick up of large recyclable electronics.

As mayor, I would encourage citizen involvement. Residents would assist city council by joining advisory committees including: recycling and environment, trees and forest preserves. To celebrate Earth Day, T-shirts would be designed and sold. The money raised would be used to purchase and plant trees. We would organize clean up events of parks, forest preserves and water systems. All participants would be recognized at a ceremony. Greenbelt would participate in Earth Hour, an annual event started in Sydney, Australia where cities have unnecessary lights turned off for one hour.

The Greenbelt mayor, other councilmembers, city residents and all Earth’s citizens must work together to ensure a greener planet for generations to come!

Visiting Greenbelt on Tuesday June 30 were the Peter Mayer family from Greenhills, Ohio, Greenbelt’s sister city. They stopped for lunch and a city tour on their way from sightseeing in Washington to visiting in Philadelphia. Mayer is employed in the city’s contract post office and also does layout and design for the Greenhills Journal, the volunteer staffed monthly newspaper for the village. His wife Jackie is a proofreader for the paper. They lunched with News Review Editor Mary Lou Williamson and Jim and Bernie Giese at the newly-opened Williams American Bistro at Beltway Plaza. Besides the volunteer newspapers and contract post offices, the group found many other commonalities such as old schools converted to community centers, once identical swimming pools, lakes and greenbelts. Following lunch the Mayers, with son Joey and Williamson displayed their respective newspapers for the camera. The Mayers then visited the Municipal Building and Greenbelt Museum and took a look about town.

Mt. Calvert Open House Successful Despite Rain

by Virginia Beauchamp

What do the Greenbelt Library and Mount Calvert, a colonial mansion on the Patuxent River, have in common?

Answer: In a space of about one year, a two-room suite in the library and the second floor of the mansion have both been dedicated as facilities of the Prince George’s County Historical Society. Representing different centuries, the two are joined as significant venues in the timeline of our county’s history.

Greenbelters, of course, know the significance of our town as the first of three Depression-era planned communities created by the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration. But they may not know the history of Mount Calvert as the sole surviving structure of the 1697 first capital of our county. A few years later the colonial capital was moved to the larger, developing community of Upper Marlboro, where it has remained ever since.

DeMarr Library

The Frederick S. DeMarr Library of Prince George’s County History was dedicated in Greenbelt on May 31 last year; this year, on June 4 an open house welcomed society members and friends to the newly repaired and rehabilitated colonial mansion, Mount Calvert, on the shores of the Patuxent River not far from Jug Bay. Members and guests were invited to browse through exhibits on the main floor of the structure, including early Indian artifacts.

Although guests had been promised an opportunity to see archeological digs in progress and to take pontoon boat rides, an all-day rain had forced the cancellation of both events. Luckily during the hour or so that guests were arriving, the rain held off and all present – including this reporter – could enjoy a catered supper.

Two large double awnings had been erected on the lawn before the building to shelter the attendees and rows of chairs set up to accommodate them during the short program that followed. A vocal group, the Ship’s Company Chanteymen in 18th-century sailors’ garb provided a great variety of a capella nautical songs to enliven the proceedings.

In the near-darkness of the threatening storm and under the dark, overhead canvas – it had functioning microphones but no lights – officials of the historical society and representatives of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission (M-NCPPC), owner of the facility, conducted a short, informal program of welcome to the society’s new home office. Society Director Elizabeth Dougherty served as master of ceremonies and long-time society member and Maryland Senate President Mike Miller offered greetings.

Dougherty also announced the placement of a commemorative bench on the grounds of Mount Calvert in honor of the late William Uber of Greenbelt who, together with his wife, Stella, ran the society’s gift shop at the Marietta Mansion for many years. Mr. Uber died on May 4, 2009.

The society vacated its former office at Marietta, which is now undergoing renovation by the M-NCPPC. The library, now in Greenbelt, had been established and was operated for many years at Marietta.

As the events at Mount Calvert concluded and the skies grew darker, we walked out from under the canvas shelter where the program had taken place. And then, as we hurried to our cars, the rains began again.
